

TWO OF SPY RING LIKELY TO PLEAD GUILTY TO CHARGES

Believe Plea Will Be Made To Protect Further Sensational Disclosures

MAY PROBE ESCAPES

Grand Jury May Investigate How Wanted Witnesses Got Out of Country

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 22—At least two of the four persons under arrest in New York in the Nazi espionage plot will plead guilty today when arraigned in Federal Court, according to reliable information from government sources.

It was understood that, when its special grand jury reconvenes, probably next week, it will direct its inquiry to the persons who aided in the flight of important witnesses from this country.

Among those who escaped was Werner Gudenberg, of Bristol, Pa. Gudenberg as early as 1935 worked along with William Lonkowski in a Buffalo airplane factory and obtained a blue print of a new Curtis bomber. They attempted unsuccessfully to smuggle a copy of the print onto a German ship here, and the matter came to the attention of naval intelligence officers.

It was reported that Gudenberg was an assistant in the office of Captain Lieutenant Erich Pfeiffer, chief of Naval Intelligence at the port of Bremen, director of Espionage in North and South America, and the official in direct charge of the New York spy operations.

Gudenberg at the time of fleeing from America was employed by the Hall-Aluminum airplane factory at Bristol, Pa., where he resided with his wife and child. He had recently returned from a trip to relatives in Germany.

Two motives are behind the anticipated guilty pleas—to avoid further sensational disclosures detrimental to Germany, which would come out at the trial, and to escape the maximum punishment of 20 years imprisonment, to which the defendants would be liable on conviction.

The four prisoners—the only defendants left in this country, are:

Johanna Hofmann, 26-year-old hairdresser on the North German Lloyd liner Europa; Guenther Gustave Rumrich, 32, former sergeant and deserter from the U. S. Army; Erich Glasser, army private stationed at the air base at Mitchell Field, L. I., and Otto Herman Voss, 39, German-American mechanic in the Seversky Aircraft Corp. plant at Farmingdale, L. I.

All have been held in jail in lieu of $25,000 bail each. Miss Hofmann and Glasser waived immunity and appeared before the Grand Jury shortly before the indictments naming 18 persons were returned Monday.

Rumrich and Voss have not been before the Grand Jury. Rumrich, however, has been identified as a source of valuable information to the government investigators, and Voss also is reported to have given information.

The Nazi octopus has entwined its tentacles about vital national defense areas throughout the continental United States, and even Hawaii and the Panama Canal Zone.

Documentary evidence of the widespread activities of the espionage ring, International News Service learned today, is being held under close guard in crack-proof vaults of the Intelligence Branches of the War and Navy Department in Washington.

This evidence shows the Nazi spies, directed by Berlin, had their headquarters in New York, but their agents were "spotted" at key defense points throughout the nation and in the outlying possessions.

Strong suspicion exists in the Army and Navy that the activities of these agents extended to sabotage as well as efforts to steal America's vital defense developments.

Two instances of sabotage developed during construction of one of the Navy's latest cruisers, the Omaha.

To Educate Non-Resident Drivers To Vehicle Law

HARRISBURG, June 22—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Motor Police today embarked upon a campaign to educate non-resident motorists on highway safety.

Members of the State Police force will be stationed at 14 "ports of entry" along main highways at or near the State boundaries for 12 hours daily. Commissioner P. W. Foote announced, to contact non-resident drivers.

Each motorist will be handed a copy of the vehicle code digest and a printed message informing him that the maximum speed limit in Pennsylvania is 50 miles an hour and that suspension of license or revocation of driving privileges will follow violations, Foote added.

The campaign will be in force from now through September, it was stated.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS AT BENSALEM WITH 150

First Day's Enrollment Larger Than It Was Last Year

HAVE MUSIC COURSE

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 22—The second annual summer school of the Bensalem Township public schools opened in the high school building here yesterday morning with approximately 150 students in attendance. Last year there were slightly more than 100 students enrolled on the first day.

The summer school classes, conducted under the auspices of Temple University, are under the direction of Dr. Marvin E. Porch, vice-principal of Haverford High School and instructor in psychology at the Mulvey Institute in Philadelphia. Dr. Porch has as his staff a group of 11 instructors.

The daily sessions of the summer school, which begin at 8:30 each morning and end at noon, will continue for a six weeks' period. Courses being given range from subjects in grade 5 to those of the senior year in high school.

One particular course that will no doubt appeal to many of the students is the course in musical instruction. S. K. Faust, Superintendent of Schools, urges all those persons interested in instrumental music to take advantage of this course. The superintendent states that it would be highly advisable to get this training whether or not you have any previous training in music. "I am hopeful that a number of the boys and girls will bring their instruments and report for training," Mr. Faust said.

Washington, June 21.

A great many useless, indefensible but costly items were included in that three- and a-half-billion-dollar omnibus spending-lending bill, passed by so overwhelming a vote in the last session of Congress. In it, and in the other great money bills which slid through so easily in the closing days, were hidden many specific appropriations for things not discussed, debated, considered or even mentioned.

A GOOD DEAL of this money, and it totals well up in the millions—might just as well be thrown down a rat hole. In not the remotest

SCOUTS PAY HONOR TO CONSTITUTION SIGNERS

Hon. Thomas B. Stockham Is Speaker at Exercises Held On Court House Steps

OTHER PROGRAMS HELD

DOYLESTOWN, June 22—State Assemblyman, Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, spoke on "Our State," before an audience seated on the Court House steps, yesterday afternoon, commemorating the four signers of the Pennsylvania Convocation of the acceptance of the United States Constitution. It was the 150th anniversary commemorating the signing of the famous document.

"A celebration such as this is a responsibility and honor for everyone to take part," said Mr. Stockham. Continuing his remarks he spoke of the historic background of the founding of the State from the time of William Penn to the present time. Dates and persons who took part in the various historical periods leading up to the present time were included in the remarks of the speaker.

In conclusion, Mr. Stockham said, "We are honoring Thomas Yardley at this time at this celebration in Doylestown. We should be proud of our State that William Penn named the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Let our State be no place for exploitation, but a better place for labor and industry. Let us prolong and renew the spirit of William Penn."

Dr. A. J. Strathie, president of the Bucks County Scouting Council, was chairman of the gathering. In his remarks of "welcome," he said: "It is well to take time out of our busy lives occasionally to thus honor the men who helped build the foundations Continued on Page Two

Trenton Woman Likely To Fight Traffic Fine

FEASTERVILLE, June 22—"She'll be fined, if guilty, the same as anyone else. She is no better than the others." These were the remarks of Patrolman Charles Creely when questioned today about the summoning of Mrs. Hilda Yelland, 588 Hutchinson street, Trenton, N. J.

Creely sent a summons Monday to Mrs. Yelland for allegedly failing to stop at a "stop street" sign. "She went through at about 50 miles an hour," Creely stated.

Mrs. Yelland lost no time in making known her intention to refuse to pay any fine, according to published accounts in Trenton papers. "It's about time someone started a campaign against these small towns which seem to pick on out-of-state drivers to build up their coffers," she is quoted as saying. "I've been driving for 10 years and this is the first time anyone has found fault with my driving."

The Trenton woman was flagged at the junction of Routes 213 and 532. At the time she was driving from Trenton to Willow Grove with her invalid mother in the car.

"I'm going to take my four Pomeranian dogs and a suitcase full of clothing just in case," she states. Intimating that she will go to jail rather than pay the fine.

Officer Creely stated today that the trial will be held between seven and eight o'clock Friday evening.

Lucky "Ike"

By "The Stroller"

Tonight there will be sitting within 30 feet of the ring at the world's championship bout, between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling in New York, one Bristol resident who did not pay a penny for the privilege which he will be enjoying.

Albert Sommerfield, well-known taxi driver, in a newspaper contest, picked 11 out of 12 winning ball teams playing June 11th and June 12th. In return for what he terms was "brain work" he received free railroad transportation to New York, free bus transportation from the railroad terminal to the scene of the fight, free admission ticket and free meals.

"Ike," as Mr. Sommerfield is popularly known, will leave Bristol at 3:45 this afternoon and leave Philadelphia on a special train with other fight fans for New York at 5:30.

WOMAN PHYSICIAN, KILLED IN CRASH, LEFT ESTATE TO KIN

Dr. Katherine L. Storm Bequeaths Personal Estate of $4,000; Real Estate, $3,000

OTHER WILLS ARE FILED

Twenty-Five Inventories Have Been Filed in the Office of Register of Wills

DOYLESTOWN, June 22—Dr. Katherine L. Storm, of East Rockhill township, who died April 25, when the car in which she was riding on the Ridge Road crashed into a pole, left a personal estate of $4,000 and real estate valued at $3,000, according to her will probated in the Register of Wills' office.

Real estate consists of a property at 1701 Diamond street, Philadelphia, which is valued at $3,000, and a property at Orange Grove and Vero Beach, in Florida. The Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company was named executor.

Dr. Storm, who was well-known in the Perkase section, bequeathed all the farm implements, including trucks and appliances on the farm, near Perkase, to Mary Agnes Corsa.

Mary Agnes Corsa, who is a niece of the testatrix, was also bequeathed the furniture, books, pictures, jewelry, chinaware and automobile.

The income of the lands in Florida was bequeathed as follows to various heirs: Twenty-two one hundredth twenty-eighths to John Corsa; 18 one hundred twenty-eighths to Eugene Corsa, Dean Corsa, Howard P. Corsa, Katherine Corsa Fox and Mary Agnes Corsa; ten one hundredth twenty-eighths to William Lehman Yerkes; six one hundred twenty-eighths to James Burrell Tippin.

According to the will, a nephew, John Corsa, shall continue as general manager of the Florida lands.

The binder and supporter business, which was originated by Dr. Storm and is maintained at 1701 Diamond street, was bequeathed to the executors with the provision that it shall be held by them in trust until the death of the survivors of John Corsa, Eugene Corsa, Dean Corsa, Howard P. Corsa, Katherine Corsa Fox and Mary Agnes Corsa.

Dr. Storm, who gave the residue of the estate, with provisions, to the various heirs already named, provided incomes for them from the binder and supporter business.

Although he left no estate, Henry H. Frick, of Hilltown township, according to his will, directed who the heirs should be in case his invention and patent should prove remunerative. A son, Robert S. Frick, 357 Lawn avenue, Sellersville, was named executor.

Twenty-five inventories were filed as follows: Estate of Alice Afterbach, Newtown, $804.69. Estate

A POPULAR KING

King Gustav V. of Sweden is 80 years old and all of Sweden is celebrating. This does not mean that armed Swedish policemen will order the populace to decorate their homes with flags and bunting, swear allegiance to the crown and unequivocal 100 per cent loyalty to whatever Sweden stands for, parade the streets and shout "Hurrah!" They will just celebrate.

For King Gustav is not only the most popular citizen in Sweden, he is the most popular ruler in the world. This goes not only for kings, but also for presidents and dictators. He is the only living ruler who rides street cars and walks in the streets without a bodyguard.

Royal birthdays have long been observed as national holidays in Sweden, especially decenniums. In 1928, the king's seventieth birthday took the form of a national subscription for a fund of $1,340,000 for cancer research. This time it will be a royal fund to fight infantile paralysis.

It is no exaggeration to say that King Gustav V. is the most popular man in Sweden. Perhaps the highest compliment in that respect has been paid him some time ago by Per Albin Hansson, Swedish Marxian Social Democratic premier. Asked how he, a socialist, could support a king, the premier replied:

"Theoretically I am a republican. But what is the use? If Sweden, by some miracle overnight should become a republic, citizen Gustav Bernadotte (King Gustav V.) undoubtedly would be elected her first president, and that would be more costly to the Swedish people than having him as king."

RIGHTS AND DUTIES

Our faith in freedom is based on the belief that every human soul has its own sovereign rights—rights that are not merely granted by society but are an essential of the human character. Since society is nothing apart from the men and women of which it is fashioned, it can never ignore this right of freedom without courting its own destruction.

Yet this freedom is not the freedom for men to do as they please. Even in primitive society this freedom is denied, and the complex demands of civilization deny it in a thousand ways. When men agree to live together for the sake of work or happiness, they set limits to their behavior and agree to live beneath a code and law.

Yet the right of freedom remains. It is a right not to natural but to spiritual freedom. Its most vital doctrine is that men have the right to think as they please.

Man as a member of society has duties rather than rights. As an individual his rights are supreme. The problem of society is to appoint to each man his duties while scrupulously protecting his rights. For in the right of men to think as they please lies the only hope for the endurance and perfection of society.

Though French duels rarely die on the field of honor, the exposure and tramping about in the morning dew can be none too healthy.

In good times or bad, there is an opening for the ready talker who can tell people in large numbers what they want to believe.

Almost everybody feels resentful enough to stand on the sidelines and cheer while somebody else steps Mussolini.

of our country, for by studying the foundation, that they so laboriously built, we can better know the proper way to build the superstructure without danger of it toppling," Dr. Strathle, upon introducing State Assemblyman Stockham, who is also Regional Commodore of the Boy Scouts of America, remarked on the splendid record in Scouting that had been established by Mr. Stockham. He announced that Mr. Stockham had now been appointed a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America in recognition of his devoted services.

conference, informed the newspaper men that their stories to this effect were "essentially cock-eyed."

A FEW DAYS later a minority report of the House Judiciary Committee made the statement that "the President of the United States, recognizing the disastrous effects of industrial strife prevalent in the country and the unsatisfactory operation of the National Labor Relations Act, has announced that a special committee will be appointed to study the entire problem looking to recommendations for labor legislation in the Seventy-sixth Congress."

This seemed a rather sound way to approach an important matter, but it turns out to be a mistake. The President did not tell Congress that it was "essentially cock-eyed," but he said much the same thing in a letter to Chairman Sumners of the Judiciary Committee, in which he referred to the above quoted words and said, "I wish to call attention to the fact that I have no intention of appointing any commission to study the operations of the National Labor Relations Act. As I publicly stated on June 3, I am solely interested in securing a report on the status of industrial relations in Great Britain, with particular emphasis on the functioning of collective agreement in order that certain current misconceptions may be clarified." Thus the thing that seemed to make the commission commendable is completely nullified.

THE MERE suggestion that it might discover facts that could be useful in amending the present law irritates Mr. Roosevelt very much. He showed this at his press conference and he showed it in his letter. Whatever he may have said privately, publicly he is not yet willing to concede any imperfection in the Wagner Act, or to admit it needs amendment. If the President's limitation is accepted, it is difficult to see what the commission he is sending over can do that is worth while. As he has outlined its work, it will be little more than a European junket at Government expense. That Mr. Swope, who is an able, dignified and public-spirited man, can get any satisfaction out of such an assignment is hardly likely. If all the President wants is a "clarification of certain current misconceptions," Mr. Swope, who certainly does not need a trip to Europe and probably would pay his own expenses anyhow, clearly will be wasting his time. One Washington correspondent, in writing about the denatured, devalitized and apparently fruitless task set for this commission by Mr. Roosevelt, suggested that it might properly be called "Swope's Summer Seminar for Silly Studies."

while public purpose. It chiefly functions as a propaganda machine, maintains a costly and considerable pay roll, has its salaried employees in every State and pompously pretends to devote itself to "co-ordinating" the multitudinous New Deal activities. Actually, it never has co-ordinated anything and it never will. It is a splendid example of bureaucracy at its silliest. If there were in the White House today any firm grasp on the affairs of the nation and any regard for the promises, party and personal, upon which the incumbent rode into office, this commission, along with a good many other such New Deal governmental gadgets, would be wiped out of existence.

STILL ANOTHER—if the words of the President himself are accepted—completely futile appropriation is the one to send abroad a commission, headed by Mr. Gerard Swope, to study industrial relations in Great Britain. It is true, this involves a small amount—some $50,000 for expenses—but the waste will be exactly one hundred per cent. When the project was first broached, it was widely advertised as a step to lay the groundwork for scientific changes in the Wagner Labor Act, so as to render that controversial statute more equitable and workable. As such, the idea was generally commended. However, after the assumption had stood for a number of weeks, Mr. Roosevelt, at a press

LANDRETH SEEDS WILL TRY TO SHAVE HOUSE OF DAVID

Tomorrow evening at 6.15, Landreth Seeds will have as their attraction at the Landreth ball park, the House of David Club from Benton Harbor, Mich. This team really should need no introduction to baseball fans in these parts, for many years this touring professional club has been known as one of the outstanding teams. Not only does the club play a high brand of ball but their ball juggling act is worth going many miles to see. It is said that the three players who handle the ball are the three best at the business in this country.

The shaveless athletes from the strange House of David are smashing attendance records everywhere and a banner crowd turns out whenever they appear. They have been playing around New York the last few weeks and have been beating the very best clubs in that section.

Their batting order is as follows: Mittman, center field; Rea, right field; Vann, third base; Cassaccio, second base; Woods, first base; Saxton or Henline, catcher; Koler, left field; Mendez, shortstop; Siccone, pitcher; Sheffield, pitcher; Swaney, pitcher; Janesko, pitcher.

Manager Landreth will probably start Walters against the "Beards." If not, it will be Black or Carey. Game starts 6.15.

LEGION JUNIOR NINE TO PLAY AT LANGHORNE

Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, Junior baseball team will play the Langhorne Post Junior baseball team at Langhorne tonight, game starting at 6.15.

Manager Hems will use Leo Riley, the Northeast Catholic High School pitcher, on the mound, with Ludwig catching.

The boys looked very good against Doylestown and coaches "Billy" Gallagher and "Bill" Sweeney will again run the team on the field of play.

training, who heads the staff, also emphasized the value that can be had by taking advantage of the course offered in music.

Students report for summer school training for several different reasons. A number are interested in getting instruction in subjects that were not open to them during the regular school term. Others wish to improve low grades, while still others are interested in making up work so that they will be ready for the next higher grade when the schools open in the fall.

The list of instructors and the subjects they will teach include: Harry Lavine, Lafayette, will teach mathematics; Miss Marion Magargal, Bernard College, science and mathematics; Miss Fay Lord, Temple University, instrumental music and English; Irving Kessler, Temple, history; Miss Jane Hall, Dickinson College, mathematics; Miss Dorothy V. Greenhaigh, Temple, English and civics; Edward E. Glaymen, Temple, history.

Miss Dorothy Gardner, another Temple teacher, will have charge of Latin and French. Miss Marylyn Davis, Temple, English; Miss Loretta O'Reilly, Temple, history and geography; and Miss Kathryn Martin, Temple, geography and history.

LOUIS HAS EDGE, SAYS McGOVERN

By Artie McGovern
Famous Trainer and Author of "The Secret of Keeping Fit"
(Written Especially for L. N. S.)

NEW YORK, June 22—(INS)—Boxing fans throughout the world are all stirred up over the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight championship fight to be held at the Yankee Stadium tonight, and, in spite of the fact that Schmeling knocked him out in a previous match, Louis will go into the ring the favorite. I think that more money will be wagered on this contest than any prize fight we have ever had.

Physically, Louis has every natural advantage. He is only twenty-four years old, while Schmeling is close to thirty-three. Schmeling has had fourteen years of ring wear, during which he has received some good hard punching, has been knocked out four times, and lost several contests. Louis, on the other hand, has been in the prize ring about four years, and is rated by experts as one of the finest fighting machines the prize ring has ever produced.

With the exception of the Schmeling fight, most of his fights have been one-sided. Louis is a terrific puncher with both hands. He has knocked his opponents out as easily with his left as he has with his right. When he decides to box, as he did in the Tommy Farr contest, he is invincible. And that is why, with all these qualifications, the sports experts made Louis such an overwhelming favorite when he fought Schmeling two years ago.

Schmeling fought a well-planned fight. He made no false moves, he was methodical, careful, cautious, and waited until the opportunity presented itself for a clean right hand punch.

Louis' one ambition since the last Schmeling fight has been to get in the ring again with Max. He feels that Schmeling's victory was a fluke and that he will turn the tables in this fight.

I think Louis is a much better fighter now than he was two years ago. Naturally, he has learned more, and will be in better fighting trim for this contest than he was for the previous one. As for Schmeling, I doubt if he can attain the fine physical condition he had two years ago. When an athlete is past thirty, especially a fighter, it is virtually impossible for him to get into what we might term perfect fighting trim. His resistance to punches is lower, his stamina and vitality are not what they used to be, he gets winded more easily, and after a few rounds his legs get heavy. However, a maxim of the prize ring is "While a fighter is on his feet, he always has a chance." One good punch can quickly settle any contest and Schmeling has that punch.

NEW YORK, June 22—(INS)—Joe Louis, a 24-year-old negro, who probably is at or just approaching the peak of his prowess, and Max Schmeling, a 32-year-old German who was supposed to be through five years ago, will meet in Yankee Stadium tonight, with Louis favored at 2 to 1 to retain the heavyweight championship of the world. The point of it all is, he probably won't. He'll be lucky to escape utter and complete decapitation.

And thus before 90,000 spectators, with more than a million dollars in promoter Mike Jacobs' till, another form upheaval will be perpetrated if the German still can weave and bob and pitch right hands as he did on a June night two years ago when he knocked the negro out in 12 fearfully brutal rounds.

Apparently he might as well not have done that at all, insofar as the fight faithful are concerned. Seemingly they have forgotten it altogether as again just as he did before, and with though it never happened and they will bet you 6 to 5 that Louis will knock Schmeling out.

Personally, I think Schmeling will history, and if he can come through to a triumph he will be one of only four men ever to fight before a two million dollar crowd.

Dempsey and Tunney appeared in the only other such extravaganza, and Max Baer would be the fourth party to a two million dollar draw. He and Schmeling would meet here for the title in September, this being an encore to their previous match when Baer scored a knockout five years ago and had us all prattling that Schmeling was washed up for keeps.

Thus if Schmeling could make it two knockouts in a row over Louis and then meet the only man who knocked him out after he reached the top, the gate would soar to such a point that Promoter Jacobs, in contemplating it, would be justified in wearing his store teeth down to mere nubs with that castanet-like clacking mannerism of his.

I think Schmeling will accomplish this, which apparently is a seeming impossibility to all others, the same way he did before—by laying back and waiting and belting Louis with that crushing right hand punch.

To me he simply has the perfect style to offset everything Louis will try to do, standing sideways as he does, weaving away from leads and countering with the right which flashes out from a position snug across his chest. The only way I can give Louis a chance is to suggest that he hit Schmeling first—and hard.

Otherwise, somewhere before the 15 round shave elapsed Schmeling will have cut him down again.

Insofar as their training camp work is concerned neither has an edge. Briefly, both looked terrible, but Schmeling always does and Louis isn't too hot himself until he gets into the ring with the chips down.

They tell you that the two years since the last fight between them has taken much out of Schmeling and that, meantime, Louis has smartened up. The followers insist that this combination of retrogression on the one hand and improvement on the other positively will make enough difference to leave Schmeling floundering around in the resin this time instead of vice versa as it was before.

But I think they see only a 24-year-old, strong, hard-punching, two-fisted champion against a comparative old man of 33 who has only one hand, and they overlook the psychological edge Schmeling must hold considering he knocked Louis out before. And they overlook boxing style.

They overlook, too, that the German can take it and Louis can't, or couldn't last time, and, moreover, he probably hasn't improved as much as the majority seem to believe. He still can be hit with rights, at least occasionally—and that's the one thing Schmeling packs.

I like him, anyhow. He ought to win one way or another.
